

PEACE REGION NEWS

December 2020

Meet our new program manager: Monique!

Monique Stevenson joined us on Monday, December 7, as our new FWCP program manager. She takes on the role of providing oversight and leadership into the management and operations of the FWCP, which delivers approximately $10 million in annual fish and wildlife project funding across its Coastal, Columbia, and Peace regions. Read more.

Trevor Oussoren, who managed the program for the last six years, has taken on a new role with BC Hydro's Indigenous Relations department. The FWCP team welcomes Monique and thanks Trevor for effectively leading the FWCP and collaboratively advancing our objectives with our program partners.

Snorkeling for Arctic grayling in the Ingenika River Watershed

This is the third consecutive year of Arctic grayling snorkel surveys in the Ingenika River Watershed. The FWCP's Peace Region is the southernmost range for this species of concern. Get a glimpse of this important work in the traditional territory of the Tsay Keh Dene with a short video by Chu Cho Environmental about this FWCP-funded project.

Watch the video now

Apply now! Community Engagement Grants still available

We can help support your fish or wildlife project. All you have to do is apply for our Community Engagement Grant, you can get up to $1,000, while funds are still available. The application form is short, and we'll make a decision quickly. What are you waiting for? Apply now. We know COVID-19 may impact project delivery, and we appreciate the innovative approaches community groups are adopting to comply with public health guidance. Contact us to discuss your ideas.

Our Community Engagement Grant helped fund BC's Bat Action Plan. Photo: BC Bat Action Team

Video: presentation on caribou restoration and recovery

Dr. Scott McNay's recent University of Northern British Columbia (UNBC) presentation on caribou recovery and restoration is online now. Watch it any time, along with past presentations funded by the FWCP and delivered in partnership with the Natural Resources and Environmental Studies Institute at UNBC. We will be hosting more free presentations in 2021. Follow us on Instagram and LinkedIn to learn more.

Read our 2019-2020 Peace Region annual report now!

Our 2019-2020 annual report is now available. Read the summary of the finances and budget, the projects we funded during the last fiscal year and the results they achieved.

The FWCP is a partnership between BC Hydro, the Province of B.C., Fisheries and Oceans Canada, First Nations, and public stakeholders to conserve and enhance fish and wildlife in watersheds impacted by BC Hydro dams.

Subscribe to our e-letters here